

DATA Token Migration

For Wallets

The Streamr (DATA) community has decided to move to a new token smart contract. The migration starts on August 17th 2021 and has no end date. This requires wallet teams to take action.

Both the old and new token contract implement the ERC-20 standard.

The old DATA token's symbol will change to XDATA and its name changes to Streamr (old). The new token will use the symbol DATA and its name will be Streamr.

Users can upgrade their tokens at any time by going to the migration page. Unless wallet software shows both tokens correctly, users can get confused as they might lose sight of their tokens post-migration, or confuse the old and new tokens. We recommend wallet teams to take action as soon as possible and complete the following steps:

- Rename the old token to XDATA, and add the new DATA token to the list of tokens displayed by default. The token names and icons have also changed. See the next page for the details.
- Display a message to users viewing their XDATA balance and direct them to the migration page. The message should be along the lines of: “There is an ongoing Streamr migration. Please upgrade to the new DATA token on the Streamr migration page.”
- Mobile apps should send a notification to users with XDATA in their wallets, if possible, or display the event in the wallet's news stream or similar.

Please start using the updated name, symbol, icon, and supply metrics for both the old and new token. Please find all the relevant information on the following page.
